Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Park
Purchase
Injunction
Shows Evils
of Poor Judgment

ADDITIONAL evidence of the poor judgment used by the city council in the manner of purchasing Glendale Verdugo park and the Airport field was given by Judge Keetch this morning in department 2 of the superior court.

At the hearing the judge made the temporary restraining order into an injunction to hold until the case can be tried at some future date.

The fact that the city attorney did not contest the granting of the injunction is probably an admission of the fact. The further fact that counsel for the city had asked in a consultation with the parties to the suit for time in which to replace the money is still further acknowledgment.

THE return of not only the amount paid on the purchase contract, but also the money expended for improvements, will settle the matter unless the plaintiff in the action should hold for judgment. In this event the return of the money does not change the present status of the case so far as the legal end is concerned, and if judgment is given plaintiff there will probably be some further changes in the personnel of the city council. The return of this money to the city treasury will enable the city council to decrease our tax rate considerably next year, and as both of the incoming councilmen have promised to do their best to give Glendale a lower tax it will undoubtedly be done.

WE are quite confident that from now on no more large purchases will be made by the City Council without authority from the voters.

On next Monday our two new councilmen will be sworn into office. The platform on which they were elected and knowledge of the men convinces us that the people's interests will be their interests. Let's wipe the slate clean, forget the mistakes of the past, and help the council as a whole, to administer the affairs of the city in such a way as will merit the commendation of all. Running a city the size of Glendale is no small job and it takes a lot of thought, time and worry. It is our duty to help them, when we know they are doing their utmost to serve us in a conscientious manner.

DON'T forget that the time they give to the administration of the city is mostly given gratis, for the amount paid per meeting is far from enough to pay for their time. The election demonstrated your confidence in the new men and your vote on the amendments and propositions gave them a clear idea of your wishes. Let's all get behind and see what a little boosting can do.

GASOLINE TAX IS UP TO THE ASSEMBLY

Senate Passes Measure
Imposing Two Cents a
Gallon on Fuel

[By Associated Press]
SACRAMENTO, April 13.—The state senate today passed the bill of Senator Breed, Piedmont, to place a tax of two cents on every gallon of gasoline used in motor cars, trucks and pleasure vehicles using the highways. Gasoline for agricultural purposes was exempted from the tax which will be collected by the distributors. It will become effective September 30, 1923. If the assembly concurs in approving the measure.

The upper house also approved with but one dissenting vote, that of Senator Carr, Alameda county, a second bill by Breed containing an entire new state motor vehicle act completely revising and codifying the law now in effect. Features of the new proposed act include a flat fee for registration and a weight tax.

Eighteen million dollars a year is expected to be derived from the taxes imposed by the Breed measures. Of this, half would go to the counties and half to the state for the maintenance of highways.

ADVANCEMENT ASSOCIATION SEES PICTURE OF THE NEW HOTEL DRAWN BY LINDLEY

First Visualization of the Hostelry Awakens the Enthusiasm Among the Members at the Regular Meeting of Organization

TO BE FIVE STORY SPANISH RENAISSANCE
Fireproof Construction Throughout; Fire Escapes Are Eliminated; a Frontage of 225 Feet on Broadway and 150 Feet on Glendale Avenue

The Glendale Advancement association, which has always been dealing in futures, had a gorgeous time at its meeting and luncheon Thursday noon, viewing the hotel to be on the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway. The picture, a beautiful water color, had been brought to the meeting by Architect Arthur Lindley and was there exhibited by Dr. Stuart, vice president of the organization, who made a most acceptable easel. The rest of the session was given to a discussion of action with regard to Glendale avenue pavement and street lights for that thoroughfare.

The picture referred to revealed a 5-story building of Spanish Renaissance design, of stucco exterior in light sand color, and fireproof construction which would make unnecessary disfiguring fire escapes. Mr. Lindley explained it would have a frontage of 225 feet on Broadway and of 150 feet on Glendale avenue. On the Broadway side were four projecting wings with open courts between and above the ground floor, these courts to be beautified as roof gardens accessible from abutting apartments. Mr. Lindley explained there would be 278 rooms in the top four stories and that it would be so built that four more stories could be added.

He enumerated the different sorts of apartments it would contain, its elevator service and its restaurant which would accommodate between 200 and 300 diners, but of even more interest was his outline of the banquet hall, ballroom and gardens, planned for the roof as temporary structures which could be removed should the extra stories be added. The plans, he said, call for the incinerators to serve all floors and furnish part of the heat for the hot water system to be distributed throughout the building. He also told of the circulating ice water system which would serve every room.

The building should cost in the neighborhood of $400,000, and require six to eight months to build, he told his audience. In the absence of C. W. Imboden, the president who is taking a vacation, Dr. Charles Stuart presided and called upon the chairman of committees for reports beginning with Mr. Stanley of the post office committee. He stated that the department at Washington had warned

LOCAL MODERN WOODMEN HOLD BIG MEETING

"Old Timers' Night" Held
by Glendale Lodge
No. 1286

"Old Timers' night" was the cause for a rousing session held last night by the members of Glendale Camp No. 1286 Modern Woodmen of America.

The meeting was particularly interesting by reason of the large number of members affiliated with the local camp who as the wandering boy comes ever so often, as well as for the large number of non-affiliated members present, a total of 195 of those living in Glendale.

The Glendale team in natty new uniforms of letter carriers' grey and trimmed in black, made a very impressive showing, and the work in the ceremony of adoption was heartily applauded, and between the team's activity and that of the Woodmen Goat, fed on all that is best in Glendale, was a cause and stimulus for satisfaction by all candidates.

The reading of a paper by Henry Molz, attorney, on Camp activities, including a review of the Camp's work from the date of organization, was interesting and instructive to all, and at the close of the session an oyster luncheon, complete in all its details, was served and thoroughly enjoyed by all, the many physicians present advising that not only before bed time maketh a sleepful night.

The committee on arrangements, of which Henry Molz was chairman, did its job up right, the Camp's cooks, Messrs. Young and Rockwell, performing their functions with ease, grace and dispatch. All told the affair was a huge success, and it is the intention of the Camp officers to make the same a yearly event.

ST. MARK'S GIRLS TO GIVE "SIX CUPS OF CHOCOLATE"

"Six Cups of Chocolate," a clever one-act comedy, will be presented by the Girls' Friendly Society of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Saturday evening, April 14, at 8 o'clock, in the Wilson Avenue Intermediate School Auditorium.

The program for the evening includes a dramatic reading by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery; selections by the Glendale Junior Orchestra; vocal selections by a mixed quartet from the high school and piano numbers by Miss Lilla Litch.

The play is being given for the benefit of the Girls' Friendly Lodge, a home for working girls in Los Angeles. The advance sale of seats indicates a large audience.

Tickets are priced at 35c for adults and 25c for children, and may be secured from members or at the auditorium. Home-made candies will be on sale during the evening.

CITY GIVES LIGHTS FOR HI GROUNDS

City Council Orders Four
More 1000-Watt
Illuminations

FOR NIGHT GAMES
Many Ordinances Are Adopted at Thursday
Night Meeting

Four additional 1000-watt electric lights were ordered by the council installed on the playground at the high school. This action was taken at the meeting of that body last night, the lights being for the purpose of providing additional illumination for baseball playing after dark. The cost of installing the lights will be $299.33.

Upon the presentation of this matter by City Manager Reeves, who stated that the request had been made by the Community Service, Councilman Davis raised the question as to the wisdom of such a move.

"Should this be done?" he asked. The kids have all day to play and when night comes they ought to be home and in bed. "This is not for the kids," said Councilman Lapham. "It is for the young men of the community. I believe we should provide some clean sort of amusement for them."

"That's the way I feel too," said Mayor Johnson. "Some of the young fellows prefer to play basketball and others like to play base ball. I think it is a good thing." The motion to install the lights was made by Councilman Stephenson and seconded by Councilman Lapham. Councilman Davis was the only member of the board to vote against the installation of the lights.

The following ordinances were adopted:

An ordinance creating first class residential district No. 12, Howard, Lexington to Doran.

An ordinance amending ordinance No. 603, which is the salary ordinance.

An ordinance accepting deed and naming a part of Dorothy drive.

The following resolutions were adopted:

A resolution ordering work on Dixon street and Lafayette street.

A resolution ordering the contract for Magnolia street to Cornwell and Henderson.

A resolution ordering work on Milford street, Commercial street and San Fernando road.

A resolution ordering the changing and re-establishing of the grade of Highland avenue.

A resolution of intention to vacate two strips of land in the Ross and Thom tracts.

An ordinance was adopted ordering the opening and widening of Park avenue.

A petition for the improving of Garfield, Brant to Central, was received and the next step ordered taken.

Maps of tracts Nos. 6502, 6570 and 6418 were approved.

As there were no protests against the establishing of a business district in Sycamore Canyon road, the petition was granted.

The matter of establishment of a commercial district on the east side of Pacific from Palm to Stocker, was, on account of protests, referred to the city engineer.

The petition to establish a commercial district on lots 11 to 16, tract No. 62, which is Galleis street, just off Dryden, was denied.

The matter of the establishment of a commercial district on Verdugo road, Opechee way to Goretta was continued for two weeks.

A protest against the widening of San Fernando road from Pacific avenue to Los Feliz road was returned for two weeks. The protest was referred to the city attorney.

HOLLYWOOD TO CLASH WITH HIGH

Tryouts to Decide Participation in So. Cal. Championship Debate

GOOD TEAM COMING

Katherine McNary and Horace Anderson to Represent Glendale

The debate which is to take place tonight in the auditorium of the high school between the local debating team composed of Horace Anderson and Katherine McNary and Hollywood high, will determine whether or not Glendale will be in the tryout for the Southern California championship. Glendale has been victorious over Hollywood for three years and it is said, that school is making a supreme effort this time; that it will send a strong team and a big delegation of rooters to encourage it.

The question to be debated is: "Resolved, that the United States Should Recognize the Present Mexican Government."

An assembly was held this morning to arouse enthusiasm for the Glendale team and assure it of the united support of the school.

The debate will begin at 8 p. m. At this writing the personnel of the jury had not been absolutely determined.

As it is generally agreed the training in debate and public speaking which this department of the school offers to its students and prospective citizens is of very great value, school officials and coaches feel the public should take enough interest to come out in sufficient numbers to encourage the debaters.

EARLY OPENING OF SYCAMORE IS INDICATED

Number of Deeds to Right of Way Are Received by City

Everything points toward the early opening and widening of Sycamore Canyon road. A number of additional deeds for the right-of-way were received and accepted by the Glendale council last night, these being for property near the intersection of Acacia street and Sycamore Canyon road. Only one more deed is required to complete this right-of-way. It is expected this will be received within one week.

Upon the receipt of this deed the city engineering department will have the title to the various pieces of property cleared. When this is done the new grade for the boulevard will be established and the work pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

NEW LOTS BOUGHT FOR LIBRARY USE

Upon recommendation of the library board the city council last night authorized the purchase of two lots in the northwest section to be used for library purposes. The price to be paid for those lots is $900 each. They are, it is understood, located near the Grand View school.

It is understood a library building will be constructed on the lots as soon as arrangements can be made to do so, no definite date, however, having been set up to this time.

ADVERTISING COMMITTEE TO MEET

George Karr, chairman of civic committee, and W. L. Twining, chairman of advertising committee, will meet with the directors of the chamber of commerce tonight to discuss with them the work to be done by those committees.

VERDUGO PARK, AIRPORT PURCHASE MONEY TO GO BACK INTO CITY FUNDS

Councilmen and Officers of City to Fund Cost of Improvements and Return Such Expenditures to the City Treasury Within Thirty Days

PERMANENT INJUNCTION IS GRANTED

Tentative Agreement to Return Money and All City Cash Expended Is Offered by Defendants' Attorney to Attorneys of G. A. Montgomery

All the money paid on the Airport and on Verdugo park will be paid back into the city treasury within thirty days, together with all money expended by the city councilmen for improvements out of the city's funds, as a result of the hearing on the injunction proceedings brought by George A. Montgomery in the superior court this morning. The money will be back in the city treasury within thirty days, according to the city attorney.

The restraining order under which further payments were stopped by the court was made permanent until the case shall not be tried in Part 10 of the superior court.

The repayment of the money was arranged in tentative agreement through their direction by Controller Salsbury and John C. Sherer, as city treasurer, will be repaid to the city by them personally.

No arrangement was made as to the payment of the cost of the action, and it is an open question whether the city attorney in the action can be paid by the city for representing the defendants. Mr. Montgomery will be compelled to pay his own costs of counsel and court costs unless this is adjusted in some way. The city is not compelled to repay him for his efforts as a citizen.

The answer to the petition by Mr. Montgomery was filed by City Attorney Shaw on April 6. It did not oppose the allegation that the councilmen had violated the state law. Judge Keetch declared that if the defendants' attorney did not oppose he would grant the injunction sought.

Mr. Shaw declared he would not oppose it in view of the recent election. Thereupon the injunction was issued and the case was set for hearing in Part 10, on its merits and allegations. The setting of the case in that part of the superior court will be announced later.

The answer as filed by the city (Continued on Page 8)

PAYS PENALTY FOR MURDER IN ARIZONA

Killed Wife of Motorist Who Gave Him a Ride

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 13.—Paul V. Hadley died on the gallows before sunrise today for the murder of Mrs. Anna C. Johnson. The trap was pullet at 5:10 o'clock and Hadley was pronounced dead at 5:22.

The condemned man maintained to the end his claim of innocence of the crime for which he was executed. He met his fate calmly, without display of fear or bravado.

Paul V. Hadley, escaped life terner from the Oklahoma state penitentiary, traveling through Southern Arizona in November, 1921, under the name of William S. Estaver, asked for a ride in an automobile driven by Peter Johnson, Denver contractor, who was traveling to California with his wife, Mrs. Anna C. Johnson.

On the highway southwest of Tucson, Mrs. Johnson was shot to death and her husband wounded. Empty shells found in the tonneau of the car were declared by the state's witnesses to have been fired from a gun found on Hadley's person when he was arrested, later walking toward Yuma, Ariz.

Johnson testified that Hadley fired the shots which killed Mrs. Johnson, but Hadley maintained that the party had been fired upon by bandits concealed at the side of the road and that he had returned the fire.

In Hadley's first trial at Tucson the jury disagreed, but in the second trial he was found guilty of murder and sentenced to hang August 13, 1922. The case was taken to the Supreme court and a stay of execution resulted. The Supreme court, however, denied the appeal, which was based on the admission of certain evidence, and set the date of the execution for April 13.

According to the information furnished Arizona authorities, Hadley was convicted of murder in Oklahoma in connection with the killing of a sheriff and escaped from the Oklahoma prison when he was granted a leave of absence to visit his mother, who was ill. It was not until after his first trial that Hadley's identity as an escaped prisoner was established.

"THE DREAMSTONE" PRESENTED BY HIS STUDENTS

The drama section of the English department under Harold Brewster of the high school, presented a one-act "Pierrot" play, entitled "The Dreamstone" Thursday afternoon in which Ralph Van Hooebeke was cast for the part of "Pierrot," Charlotte Winsel for "The Mayor's daughter," and George Janse "The Mayor."

Before the curtain went up, Mr. Brewster explained that a series of Thursday afternoon matinees had been arranged to clear the docket, as it were, of eleven plays which had been studied and were ready for production; that the audience, composed of high school students, would find nothing melodramatic in "The Dreamstone," but instead the highest type of intellectual play, one really worth while which he hoped they would enjoy; that he also hoped if they didn't like it they would keep still, and if they did that they would tell others.

It proved to be a beautiful bit of symbolism on the theme "Right forever on the scaffold, wrong forever on the throne."

As the work of youthful amateurs too inexperienced to fully grasp its deeper meanings it was very well done. The play itself is too delicate for clumsy analysis. It is a suggestion, elusive as one of Whistler's etchings, of dreaming art, staved and stoned, by stolid law and order and of seeking youth striving to follow its dreams.

The manner of its presentation is a liberal education in modern stage ideals which have returned in some measure to the simplicity of the early drama in that they require few properties depending instead upon the costuming of the actors and the atmosphere created by wonderful light effects.

JETER PREFERS BARNYARD ODOR TO PERFUME

Declares Some Make Fake Engagements to Avoid His Revival

JERRY JETER JOLTS
"A railroad company is often sued for $50,000 for killing a fifty cent 'hill billy.'"

"I held a meeting over in a town in Oklahoma where there were so many grafters that if a fellow said on the street: 'Hello, grafter!' thirteen men would turn around to see which one was being spoken to."

"No wonder Solomon was a wise man with all of those women bringing the news into him every morning."

"I am glad I was reared on the farm. I still have the aroma of the barnyard upon me and it is sweeter than the perfume that many of the women are using these days."

"Hard sinners make hard times."

"To keep from attending this revival some will make 'fake' engagements so they can say: 'Sorry, but I have an engagement!'"

"Some of you people have been singing for years, 'Onward Christian Soldiers,' when you are not even out of the depot brigade."

The largest week night crowd was out last night to hear Jerry Jeter at the tabernacle on the corner of Broadway and Cedar. That the meetings are attracting attention is seen by the increasing crowds and the comments heard by those who hear the Jeters a few times.

Mr. Jeter spoke last night on the word "Come." He said it is one of the simplest of words, yet God uses it to get people to return to Him.

"God invites by saying, 'Come,'" said the evangelist. "Jesus says, 'Come,' and the Holy Spirit says 'Come.'"

"Who are invited? Then, any man, every one, the little children and whosever will," said the preacher.

Mrs. Jeter spoke in the afternoon on the theme of regeneration and a number asked for prayers and some went to the inquiry room at the close of her service.

LAZY MAN'S OWN PHONOGRAPH IS SHOWN HERE

Plays 4 Records in Series Without Adjustment Until Turned Off

Imagine a phonograph on which you can put four records, close down the lid, and forget all about the music box until the four records have been played. And if you don't forget to change them they will go right on in concert form until the records wear out?

For years an instrument of this kind has been a dream. It is now a reality.

In the storeroom at the southeast corner of Colorado and Brand a free exhibition of the Autrola, the very latest invention along the phonograph line, is being given. Without obligation in any way, the people of Glendale are invited to stop and hear this instrument play and note its unique and truly wonderful operation.

The Autrola is electrically operated. Four records are placed on the plates, the electric button is pressed, and for 20 minutes the instrument plays, unattended, the four records being played without the owner having to touch it. If it is not touched it repeats.

This machine was invented and patented by William H. Dally of Tucson, Arizona. For years Mr. Dally worked on this machine. One improvement after another has been made by the inventor, with the result that the finished machine is absolutely perfect. Its operation is noiseless and accurate. It plays all makes of records in all sizes.

Those who have seen this remarkable instrument consider it one of the most important inventions of the age. It is simplicity itself. A child can operate it.

The officers of the company, which has been organized to manufacture and sell this instrument include: W. H. Dally, president, treasurer and director; J. W. Dally, assistant secretary and director; F. A. Erlinger, assistant secretary and director; T. C. McCall, director; R. W. Langworthy, secretary and director.

G. S. Hancock, who is well known to the people of Glendale, is handling the Autrola in this city.

Consistency is a jewel that is difficult to counterfeit.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING SHOP IS WELCOMED

The Good Housekeeping Shop, 140 South Brand boulevard, has made it possible for every home in Glendale to have one of the famous Easy clothes washing machines. They will put this wonderful washer in any home for only $10 down and the balance in 12 easy monthly payments.

"The Easy washing machine is different from the average washer," says Manager Larkin. "It does away with rubbing and friction and thus avoids the untimely wearing of clothes. The water is flushed through the clothes by air pressure and suction. It is thorough and easy on the clothes. The revolving vacuum cups move up and down sixty times per minute and carry away every particle of dirt with the least danger to fine fabrics."

The Easy was given the highest award at the Panama Pacific International Exposition and is approved by the Good Housekeeping Institute and the New York Tribune Institute.

CHICAGO, April 13.—A bill which would stop every form of commercialized amusement or entertainment on Sunday in Chicago, and throughout the state, has been introduced in the legislature by James MacMurray, state senator of Chicago.

MEXICO CITY, April 13.—

The bishop of Belize (British Honduras) two nuns and seventeen other passengers were drowned when a motorboat in which they were riding sank in a storm last Wednesday, delayed advices declared. Fifty other persons were said to have been saved.

The snow lay thick upon the ground. A Scotchman looking for work knocked at the door of a fellow-countryman. He asked if he could shovel the snow, and how much he would give him.

"Well," replied the householder, "as you are a Scotchman I'll give you twenty shillings."

"Oh, will you? Then what would you give an Englishman?" queried the out-of-work. "Five shillings."

Was the reply. The Scotchman considered. "In that case," he finally decided, "give me the fifteen shillings, and let an Englishman shovel the snow."

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

THE writer recently spent several weeks in Turkey, Egypt and some of the countries of Southern Europe. One cannot make even the most superficial visit to these far away lands and not be impressed first of all by the lack of progress as compared with American standards. All so one need look no further than these regions for the most graphic illustration of the fact that there can be no national progress excepting where there is a background of individual thrift, education and ambition.

One views in many of these countries the landmarks of ancient glory—temples and palaces of great beauty; numerous works of art reminiscent of the golden age of the painter and the sculptor; foundations and ruins of monumental structures where oratory and the drama were born and where the philosophies of the ages first were uttered.

It is most incongruous to note the poverty, squalor and illiteracy that exists today amid the ruins of those ancient splendors.

In witnessing these spectacles one is most forcibly impressed with the fact that no matter how powerful a nation may be, how exalted its civilization or how splendid its accomplishments in the arts and sciences, there can be no permanency unless the personal lives and habits of the people are sound.

Civilization, after all, is just a matter of what individuals do day by day.

Had the people of Egypt, for example, practiced individual thrift, as millions of Americans know it today, through the many centuries that have elapsed since the days of their ancient wealth and power, what a tremendous force in human progress they would be today!

No nation can rise higher than the level of individual thrift and education among its people; nor will any nation ever sink lower than that same level.

A farmer had lost some ducks. He was asked by counsel who was defending the prisoner accused of stealing if he could tell them anything about the missing birds.

After this had been done counsel said: "They can't be such a very rare breed, as I have some like them in my own yard."

"That's more than likely," said the farmer, who was getting tired of a long cross-examination. "These are not the only ducks that I've had stolen lately!"

It's always a case of the survival of the fittest. Are you it?

RESULTS OF BIG BUYING POWER SHOWN

The Kafeteria Shoe Store Manager Tells of Effect of Combination

"The coming of the big chain stores to Glendale means more than one can realize," said a prominent business man in speaking of the foresight used by Sidney Glass when he put in one of his Kafeteria shoe stores here. "It means," continued the speaker, "that the far-sighted business men like Glass and his able manager, Phillip Cushman, have unbounded faith in the growth and future development of this city."

And this seems to be about the size of the situation, for the Kafeteria shoe store has put in a line here that is second to none of its thirteen other stores.

"We are selling the same goods here at the same low prices," said Manager Cushman, "that are handled by our big stores in larger cities than Glendale, and the highest price you can pay for shoes is $4.85. This week we have on a $1 sale which offers some especially attractive bargains. You will have to see the line to appreciate what you can buy for $1."

The buying power of the Kafeteria shoe stores is very large and shoes are bought at prices which enable the local store to offer the public values that are indeed big bargains.

RICKEY STANDING PAT WITH THE CARDS

By HENRY FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 13 (United Press).—It is probable that the good people of St. Louis are still hoping for a National league pennant. They have been hoping for three years, and game fans never give up. So, under the circumstances, it will not be a disappointment if the Cards fail to come through in the 1933 pennant race, as they have become almost habitual failures.

Last spring a great many good baseball judges picked the Cardinals to beat out the Giants for the National league pennant. They not only failed to win the league championship, but they were crowded out of second place by the fast-finishing Cincinnati Reds, and almost squeezed out of the third hole by the resuscitated Pirates.

It is impossible to explain the reason for the flop of the Cards last year without entering into a criticism of the managerial methods of Branch Rickey and, for the same reason, it is equally impossible to make an accurate forecast of what the club will do in the coming pennant race.

The loss of McHenry, a star outfielder, who was ill all season, and who died after the season had closed, and the utter collapse of the pitching staff, were two apparent causes for the failure of the Cards after they had been worked up to their top form and first place in the latter part of July.

The brain malady which came upon McHenry was a very bad break, both for the player and the club, and it was something over which Rickey had no control, but the poor work of the pitchers was attributed by several of his players as being due to very poor judgment of their manager.

The players also criticized Rickey for using McCurdy, a young catcher, behind the plate in several critical games; for benching Pournier and using Bottomly, a rookie, on first base, and for using another rookie, Blades, in the outfield, when he had more experienced players on the bench.

It must be admitted that Rickey knows baseball, and that if the critics among his players knew as much as he did that they would not be players. But, on the other hand, the evidence tends to indicate that the players might have been at least partially right in their criticism.

Rickey, at various times, has held himself up as the outraged victim of the money demon, who helped the New York Giants win pennants. Several seasons ago, when the Giants were reported to have offered $200,000 for Rogers Hornsby, Rickey said that he would never sell a great ball player and neither would he buy one.

For this reason the Cards have not been strengthened since the close of the last season. Even down to the Athletics and the Phils, most of the major league clubs opened their purse-strings last winter and went after ready-made products. Rickey still goes along with the idea that he can develop young players, and you can count up on your fingers the young players who have been developed by major league clubs since the war.

Numerous individuals are encountered who aspire to found wonderful institutions of learning, where the truths of the Cosmos may be revealed, etc.; but each and every one of these egotistical souls claims to be the absolute "Center" around which all else must revolve.

Any teaching, of whatever source or nature, which promulgates the idea that there is no real power in the Christ; that the Christian teachings are false; that there is nothing to be gained by sincere, soul inspired prayer to the Father, is at once delusive and destructive, and all this propaganda issues from one and the same source, when correctly traced; to that source of diabolism which seeks to overthrow society, government, family, freedom and truth.

And so we sit, on this glorious morning, with the Congregation of the Faithful, and aspire to membership in that Universal Synagogue, especially as we behold before us as we write the majestic mountains amidst which is located the Sanctuary of the Synagogue itself; the evergreen, sweet and smiling Verdugos. Long life and greater power to the Congregation of the Faithful and its beloved Rabbi, and may the power of true prayer grow in intensity, as day by day the radiant vibrations of his thoughts reach more and more of the people all over the world. God bless and preserve the Congregation and its pastor and make them all channels through which may descend upon a hungry earth, the true food of Regeneration by the power of Prayer. Selah.

SAINT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Plans have been started by local Catholic residents to raise a fund of $400,000 for the construction of a new St. Mary's academy. The present structure was built in 1875 and it is hoped the new building can be completed by 1925, the 75th anniversary of the founding of the institution.

Easy Lessons in Auction Bridge

Article No. 27

Inferences

Inferences or deductions made from the bidding of partner or opponents are as important as any other one thing in Auction. Proper deduction helps not only in bidding but also in the play of the hand after the final bid is determined. Inferences are of two kinds: positive inferences and negative inferences. Positive inferences are drawn from the actual bidding either of partner or opponents. Negative inferences are drawn either from the failure of partner or opponents to bid at all or their failure to make certain bids. For example, suppose the dealer bids one Club. From that bid, the other players make the positive inference that the dealer has two quick tricks in his hand, either in the Club suit alone or one quick trick in the suit and one outside trick. Assume a bid of one Club by dealer, pass by second hand and dealer's partner to hold the following:

Hearts—J, 10, 4, 2
Clubs—A, 7, 6
Diamonds—Q, 10
Spades—K, 4, 3, 2

He knows that the Club suit is set up because his partner either has five Clubs to the K and an outside trick or five Clubs headed by the K Q J. With the Ace of Clubs in his hand, no other original Club bid by the dealer is possible. This is a good example of a positive deduction based on the requirements for an original bid and the cards in one's own hand.

With such holding the proper bid is one No Trump. Now suppose fourth hand doubles the No Trump bid, the dealer passes and second hand bids two Diamonds. The dealer's partner must now pass. The inference or deduction from fourth hand's double is that his hand contains at least three quick tricks in the three suits other than Clubs; that his partner, the dealer, probably has no more than an original bid; and that second hand, who has just bid two Diamonds, has the weakest hand of the four and therefore has no chance for game. Under such conditions a clever deduction determines that the game is in no danger and therefore plays on the defense.

Negative inferences are not so easy to draw as positive ones, and there is always a certain amount of guess work connected with them that it is impossible to eliminate. Assume a No Trump bid by dealer, a double by second hand, pass by third hand, and a two Club bid by fourth hand. The positive inference is that the two Club bidder has at least four Clubs; the negative inference that the bidder hasn't four Spades. Under the modern theory of the inferential doubles, doubler's partner always is required to bid a four card Spade suit in preference to any minor suit however long or strong, or in preference to any four card Heart suit, however strong, in response to a double. This is the so-called Spade Convention which has been covered in a preceding article.

There also are negative inferences that may be drawn from the failure of one opponent to assist his partner's bid or from the failure of an opponent to re-bid, that very often are most valuable. For example, assume a Heart bid by dealer, two Clubs by second hand, pass by third hand, two Spades by fourth hand, pass by the dealer; and second hand to hold the following:

Hearts—10, 9, 7, 6
Clubs—A, Q, 10, 7, 2
Diamonds—A, K, 7
Spades—10

The negative inferences, first, from third hand's failure to assist his partner's Heart bid and, second, from the dealer's failure to re-bid, are that second hand and his partner surely have one stopper in the Heart suit, possibly two in their combined hands. As a result of these deductions second hand should now bid two No Trump. This bid should now indicate to his partner that he has a tentative stopper in the Heart suit and no assistance for the Spades. Such inferences are numberless and the player who is most alert to their possibilities is the winning player. They are the most interesting phase of bidding and also the most difficult.

Editorials by the People

435 S. Central Avenue,
Glendale, California,
April 9, 1933.

To the Editor of the
Glendale Daily Press:

This week our thoughts are turned more than ever to our animal friends. In honor of them you will be glad, we are certain, to give space in your valued columns for the publication of a story from "The Starry Cross" and of "The War Dog."

A man went out in a boat one day—the tax collector had come to him to collect the tax on the dog and he could not pay it, so he thought the only thing to do was to drown the dog. He tied a brick to the dog's neck and threw it overboard, but the brick was not heavy enough and the poor creature still swam. So the man took his oar to push the dog under and hit it on the head. In these cruel attempts he overbalanced himself and fell into the water. He could not swim. And that dog he had tried to kill swam to the man who had tried to murder it, got him by the coat with his teeth and swam with him to the shore, saving his life!

Who put that loyalty, who put that fidelity, who put that forgiving spirit into the heart of that wonderful dog?

THE WAR DOG

BY EDWARD PEPPE

He was only a dog, but he went to war. On the shell-ploughed fields of France, and loyally labored with tooth and paw to battle the clutch of an iron claw. In the swoop of the Hun's advance.

Without an equipment he joined our fight;

Without a commission or rank,
He was the cur he was, with a soul bright.
Yet we gave him a uniform of white,
With a crimson cross on his flank.

And he wore his cross with a lordly pride,
As he raced through a sea of mud,
Till the white of his uniform was dyed
With the trickling ooze of a crimson tide.

And his cross was a spear of blood,
His post was a line where the wounded
And his chief was a surgeon's son.
A man among men, with the heart of A master of mercy who worked and
And who smiled when his work was done.

And so they toiled for their country's weal,
Unhonored, unarmed, unsung!
A landage, a sponge, and a spot to
In a torturing tempest of splintered steel.

On a short hour's sleep—and a bone,
Where the man had a mission to ease
Of his brothers who fell and bled,
There a dog went out on a gasp—
To sniff and sniff through the mounds of slain.

For the living among the dead,
And many a mother, who knelt and prayed
At the cross for her battling son,
May ever thank God that his death was stayed.

By the bark of a dog that was unafraid,
In the cause of a cross that won.

It won through the rush of the shrapnel sang,
Over the boom of the gun,
Where the bayonets clashed, and the rifles rang.

With a resonant, piercing, crashing
clang,
In the path of the blood-mad Hun,
Their whistles shrilled, and the gray hordes surged.

Through a sulphurous pall of smoke,
To falter and reel like a man athirst,

Yet onward in waves of a sea accused,
And our thin lines wavered and broke.

Back, back, we were bent, till a counter blow
Was launched in a turbulent tide,
And khaki columns were locked with the foe.

In a dizzy-tumbling whirlpool flow,
Where the billows of fury ried.

Where the eagle clawed at a vulture's crest
And tore with his beak at a crown,
There, a surgeon lay, with a white hand pressed.

To a wound in his undefended breast,
Where a Prussian had struck him down.

Yet the war dog stood by his fallen mate,
Then straight for a throat he leaped,
And another note in the hymn of
"Hate"

Was ripped from its scroll by the flicks of fate,
In a harvest of horror reaped.

And a dog had reaped, in the princely pride
Of a trust that should live unmarred,
Though he sank to earth at his mate's side.

Unconquered—and still on guard!
He crouched by his own like a brother's twin,
And with blood on his bristling fur,
"By God!" screamed a boy, in the face of fear.

"I'm going out yonder and bring him in!"
And he went through hell—for a cur,
But the cur recoiled from the pitying hand.

That was stretched for his own relief,
And snarled at the boy, in a hoarse command.

That even a human could understand,
So he stooped for the helpless child,
He lifted him up on his strong young back.

And the dog saluted in joy,
With a bark as clear as a rifle's crack.

Then he dragged himself on the shot-swept track
Of the staggering, reeling boy.

And our line went mad, to its roaring rear,
In the homage of souls astray.

While the trenches rocked with a triple cheer
For those who had laughed in the face of fear.

For a man! For a boy! And a cur!
Did the chief pass out? Did the war dog die,
And his mission of mercy fail?

He answered himself and gave us
the lie,
With a gleam in one swollen, blood-stained eye.

And a wag of his bleeding tail,
Through battered Belgium and shell-
riven France,
Where the banners of Britain wave,
He lolled in a nebulous morphia trance
As he rode in a Red Cross ambulance,
And cheated a warrior's grave.

At the hospital base, his cheating was worse,
For he theft of our hearts be sin,
For he sponged on a major general's purse.

And licked the tears from the cheek
of his nurse,
As she tenderly tucked him in.

So they gave him another cross to wear,
Though they wanted to give him ten;
But he kept just two—which was just
and fair—
And fair—

The cross on his flank, and a Croix
de Guerre,
For the envy of lesser men.

Yet, he only asks, with a pleading
paw,
When this madness of might shall cease,
To hold in your bosoms one human law—
Remember our dogs in the days of war,
And our dogs in the days of peace.

And let us not forget the horses, the mules and the pigeons who gave their lives, dumb heroes of the World War.

H. E. BARNUM TO PARK PURCHASE BUILD ON SPARR TRACT MONEY TO BE REFUNDED

One of the Subdividers Selects Foothills for Own Home

H. E. Barnum of Barnum & Walters, the developers of Sparr Heights, has selected one of the rounded foothills lying about a block to the east of the Verdugo road in that picturesque tract as a site for a very beautiful home. The house will be of stucco construction and will be a modification of the Spanish type of architecture. It will consist of nine rooms and will be of rambling construction. Mr. Barnum intends to install a large swimming pool and will create a very artistic refectory under a spreading vine-covered pergola. This will be for the purpose of holding "picnic parties" where, while enjoying the fresco entertainment, the guests can enjoy the comprehensive view over the lovely Verdugo valley, the greens of the Oakmont Country Club, and of the three mountain chains that encompass Sparr Heights. Mr. Barnum is a long time resident of Southern California and selected this particular site as the most ideal that he could find.

THE CITY GIVES MORE LIGHTS FOR HIGH GROUNDS

ney for examination and report. Councilman Lapham stated that, as San Fernando is a through road, the state of the city should help to pay for the widening process.

A resolution was adopted establishing a grade on Wing street. A petition was received for the improvement of Garfield avenue from Brand to Central with 4-inch cast iron water pipe. This was referred to the city engineer for checking and report.

Residents along Glenwood road from Grand View to Western petitioned the council to start proceedings for the improvement of that street with 3-inch macadam pavement, sidewalks, curbs and gutter, and the city engineer and city attorney were instructed to start the necessary proceedings.

A petition was received from the property owners along Western avenue from Glenwood to Kenneth, asking that that street be improved with 5-foot cement sidewalk. The city attorney and city engineer were instructed to start the necessary proceedings for this work.

The property owners along Fourth street from Western to R. Berta petitioned the council to improve their street with gutters, sidewalk and curb, and the city attorney and city engineer were instructed to start proceedings for this work.

Peter L. Ferry was granted an extension of 30 days in the time necessary for the improvement of Belmont drive and Ard Eeven avenue.

A petition was received asking that a portion of Sonora avenue be improved with 3-inch macadam. The next step in this work was ordered taken.

In the matter of the council granting the owners of property in Glendale Crest permission to set their homes closer to the front property line than 25 feet, the council decided that an application must be made in every instance of such a change being desired, as no set rule could be established for the entire tract.

A demand for $575 from H. F. Bryant in connection with the improvement of the Patterson avenue park was allowed and ordered paid. The council decided that if it adjourned it did so to meet at 6:30 o'clock on Monday, April 16, when the retiring councilmen will take their leave from official duties and the councilmen-elect will be sworn in.

THE MARKETS

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, April 12.—Further relaxation of money rates and the excellent credit conditions disclosed in the weekly report of the federal reserve system caused a moderate revival of bullish sentiment in today's stock market. Sporadic short selling developed in a few quarters but it failed to bring out any large volume of stock. Net gains in the advance issues ranged from 1 to 3 points. Sales approximately 900,000 shares.

Further reductions in the discounts and note circulation in the local federal reserve bank had a constructive effect on prices at the opening of today's stock market. Further recovery from recent heaviness was made by the oil, automotive, rubber and independent steel shares, most of the opening sales being fractionally above yesterday's closing figures.

The early buying embraced a wide assortment of shares. Gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded by such widely diversified issues as United Fruit, Reynolds Tobacco B. United Retail Stores, Industrial Alcohol, Mack Truck, American Waterworks, United Railway Investment preferred, Allied Chemical and General Asphalt. American Express continued under selling pressure, yielding 1 1/2 points. Public service of New Jersey reacted slightly. Foreign exchanges opened firm. Demand sterling was quoted at $4.85 1/2, up 1/4, and French francs advanced 3 points to 6.70 1/2.

payment of $20,000.00 demanded by said contract.

The defendants deny that the contract set forth in "Exhibit A" attached to said complaint was not presented to the Controller or was not endorsed by him as required by the provisions of the charter of the City of Glendale.

Defendants deny that any of the transfers of public funds set forth in Paragraph 7 of said first cause of action were "wrongfully, unlawfully or illegally made. Said defendants further deny that any of the orders or warrants mentioned in Paragraph 9 of the said first cause of action will be illegal.

III. Defendants deny that any of the payments of funds of the City of Glendale referred to in said first cause of action is in violation of the charter of said City of Glendale, or that any of said payments was known by any of the defendants to be unlawful, illegal or void.

Said defendants deny that by reason of any expenditure of the public funds of the City of Glendale mentioned in said complaint, the defendants, the Councilmen of the City of Glendale, or any of them, or the defendant, Elizabeth Jones, became liable or indebted to, or now are, jointly or severally, liable or indebted to the City of Glendale for any sum of money, or that any sum of money is now due and owing from said Elizabeth Jones or any of the other defendants, City Councilmen to the said City of Glendale.

Now come the defendants and answer the second cause of action set forth in said amended complaint as follows:

Said defendants deny that the contract attached to said complaint as "Exhibit B" was executed or delivered on the 9th day of December, 1922, or at any time prior to the 27th day of December, 1922, and deny that by said contract the City Council of the City of Glendale intended to purchase any land from Roy L. Kent.

Defendants deny that any indebtedness incurred or created against the City of Glendale by the execution of said contract, or by the complaint as "Exhibit B" was so incurred or created without having provided for the payment thereof in the revenues of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923.

Said defendants deny that the City Council in the execution of said contract attached to the complaint as "Exhibit B" did not secure the certificate of the Controller thereon as required by the city charter.

Defendants allege that on the 26th day of December, 1922, said City Council passed a resolution authorizing the execution in behalf of the city of Glendale of said contract, and in the same resolution estimated that the expense to be incurred by the City of Glendale under said contract during the present fiscal year is the sum of $18,232.50, and that thereupon on the 27th day of December, 1922, the Controller endorsed on said draft of the contract which was before the Council on the 26th day of December, 1922, his endorsement as follows:

"I hereby certify that adequate provision has been made in the tax levy or by other revenues to be received by the City of Glendale during the current fiscal year 1922-23

WEDLOCKED

THAT COTTAGE I BOUGHT IS A GOOD BUSINESS PROPOSITION. I ONLY PAID $500 FOR IT AND I CAN RENT IT FOR $1,500 A SEASON

as estimated in the budgets to pay the estimated expense to be incurred under the foregoing order during the said fiscal year as estimated by the board or officer making said order, to-wit, the sum of $18,232.50.

"H. C. SAULSBERRY, Controller."

That thereafter, and prior to the execution of said contract in behalf of the City of Glendale, the same was rewritten in the same words and figures in which the same had been presented to said City Council, and that the draft thereof on which said endorsement was made was not executed by the City of Glendale but was destroyed, and that the new copy thereof was executed by the City of Glendale of February, 1923, said Controller made an endorsement upon the copy of said contract which had been executed by said J. D. Radcliff and Bertha M. Radcliff, his wife, and the City of Glendale in the same words and figures hereinafter set forth as having been endorsed upon the original draft of said contract.

II. Defendants deny that the City Council of said City of Glendale acquired the land referred to in said cause of action for the purpose of using the same as an aviation field or for the purpose of leasing the same, or parts thereof, to individuals for private use, except as herein expressly admitted.

Said defendants deny that the claimant said land was acquired for water bearing purposes in whole or in part at all, and deny that the land now owned by the City of Glendale for water or well purposes is sufficient for all water purposes whatever that is now needed, or will be needed by the City of Glendale at any time. Defendants allege that the same decrees in favor of the City of Los Angeles referred to in said second cause of action, adjudging it to have the paramount right to use the water underlying the land referred to in said cause of action, also affects all the other water bearing land owned by the City of Glendale, but that said City of Los Angeles has not attempted to enforce said judgment against the City of Glendale, and the City of Los Angeles does not in fact need the water underlying said land for its own uses, but has a sufficient supply of water from other sources. Defendants further allege that said land referred to in said cause of action is water bearing land and is to be acquired and will, if acquired, be purchased by said City of Glendale by reason of the fact that the same is water bearing land and for the purpose of obtaining a supply of water therefrom to be used by said City in connection with its municipal water works, and also for the purpose of protecting other water bearing land adjacent thereto now owned by said City and wells upon said land now owned by said City from depletion and losses of water through wells that might be sunk by other persons upon said land referred to in said second cause of action, if the same were not acquired by the City of Glendale. Defendants allege that said land will not be acquired for any other purpose, but that the full accomplishment of said purpose herein mentioned does not require the use of the entire surface of the said land, and that so far as the surface of said land is not required for said purpose, said City of Glendale will have the full right to use the same for any other purpose consistent with the uses of the land hereinbefore mentioned for wells and for the protection of other wells, and it is the expectation of the Council of the City of Glendale that the surface of said land, so far as not needed for the drilling or sinking of wells thereon, will be used for other lawful purposes, which purposes may include a landing field for flying machines and a temporary rental of the said surface for hangars and storage purposes and other similar matters.

III. Said defendants further deny that any of the orders or warrants mentioned in Paragraph 8 of the said second cause of action will be illegal.

Defendants deny that any of the payments of funds of the City of Glendale referred to in said second cause of action is in violation of the charter of said City of Glendale, or that any of said payments was known by any of the defendants to be unlawful, illegal or void.

Said defendants deny that by reason of any expenditure of the public funds of the City of Glendale mentioned in said complaint, the defendants, or any of them, became liable or indebted to, or now are, jointly or severally, liable or indebted to the City of Glendale for any sum of money, or that any sum of money is now due and owing from any of the defendants to the said City of Glendale.

"JUNE MADNESS" AT ADVANCEMENT ASS'N. THE GLENDALE FOR TWO DAYS

"June Madness," a Metro picture, starring Viola Dana, will be the featured attraction at the Glendale theatre beginning tonight. It is a comedy that commences where most pictures leave off—at the altar. Clytie Whitmore is being married, but she doesn't like the idea. The bridegroom has a six-cipher fortune, but his personality is a cipher, too, though that phase doesn't matter with Clytie's mother.

Just as the ceremony is about to be performed, with Mamma smiling and young girls whispering, and the society reporters compiling the roster of those present, Clytie trips, falls, and gets a black eye. It is providential, for it gives her the impetus to break away and make a dash for liberty just as the officiating minister begins to wind up his delivery.

Defendants deny that any of the payments of funds of the City of Glendale referred to in said second cause of action is in violation of the charter of said City of Glendale, or that any of said payments was known by any of the defendants to be unlawful, illegal or void.

Said defendants deny that by reason of any expenditure of the public funds of the City of Glendale mentioned in said complaint, the defendants, or any of them, became liable or indebted to, or now are, jointly or severally, liable or indebted to the City of Glendale for any sum of money, or that any sum of money is now due and owing from any of the defendants to the said City of Glendale.

ed Postmaster Jackson not to expect anything more from it until after the beginning of the fiscal year in July.

Dr. Stuart announced the invitation to the association to participate in the celebration being put on by the San Fernando Boulevard Association of the lighting of the new ornamental standards on that thoroughfare April 21. The doctor added that the sister association had promised to furnish facts and figures for the use of the Advancement Association in case it wished to push a similar lighting system for Glendale avenue.

In response to inquiries from Mr. Kinch, City Manager Reeves stated that the new policy of the city with regard to furnishing light for ornamental standards at the cost of the general funds, to which the city was now committed by the vote at the recent election, would probably cost the taxpayers of the municipality an additional $30,000.

In defense Mr. Kinch said he considered such lighting one of the best advertisements a city can have, and that he would like to see such lighting on all our main thoroughfares. "When we get such lights," said he, "we will have some city and the people driving through on San Fernando and other boulevards will take notice. I move that our lighting committee be instructed to get busy in regard to the lighting of Glendale avenue and report at the next meeting." This motion carried.

Dr. Russell suggested that the lighting committees of the various improvement associations get together and agree upon some uniform standard and type of light, a suggestion which appeared to be generally approved. A change of lights on Broadway and the removal of the present cluster of lights here to complete the system on Brand was discussed pro and con without definite action.

Dr. Stuart announced a meeting of Glendale avenue property owners to be held some evening next week in council chamber, probably Tuesday evening, to consider the paving best adapted to Glendale avenue. Peter Ferry moved that the association go on record with a recommendation to the city council to pave that thoroughfare with six-inch concrete. Mr. Finlay of the association's paving committee; R. M. Brown and J. F. Chandler, opposed the motion on the ground there was no urgent need of action and courtesy and the best interests of property owners demanded the committee recommendations be submitted before action should be taken. Mr. Ferry then withdrew his motion.

Mr. and Mrs. Morish of North Dakota were guests introduced by Mr. and Mrs. Mercer and A. H. Davis and Arthur G. Lindley enrolled as members.

Following adjournment the association reassembled to have its picture taken with the picture of the new hotel centering the group in the background.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

Americans pride themselves on being the best business men in the world. Perhaps they are if we think of a business man as one who always gets the best and the most for himself, regardless of the other fellow. But we have much to learn in the way of so distributing the products that contribute to our food, clothing, and other wants, that all will be served at the least cost. While demand and supply rule as price factors in most cases, in a few the sordid demands of greed are paramount. Recently, we have had an instance of this nature in the inflated price of sugar. The supply is far in excess of the demand, and the price should have fallen instead of risen. But the sugar trust, taking advantage of a too-vague statement of a cabinet member and aided by the biggest gambling hell on earth, Wall Street, boosted the price of sugar until it is now close to twice as much as it should be. A few years ago, an unscrupulous commission firm in Los Angeles "cornered" the onion and potato market and these commodities rose in price to the highest figures ever known, though there were plentiful stocks on hand in the freight yards of the city. But these were held back from delivery long enough to allow the unscrupulous dealers to reap an enormous profit from the necessities of poor people. There is only one way in which the consuming public can combat such outrages as these. They can cut down the use of such commodities to the minimum, even at a great sacrifice to themselves and thus force the thieving speculators in man's needs to unload their ill-gotten supplies at a loss.

It is a saying in sporting circles, especially baseball and prize fighting, that "they never come back." Of course, there are a few, but very few, exceptions to this rule, for "has-beens" have been known to regain their old form for a brief season and astonish the world. But for a real "come-back," Glendale's east side takes the prize. The original city clustered around what is now the crossing of Wilson and Glendale avenues and from this small hub the settlement slowly radiated spokes in all directions, but principally east, for 20 years or more. Then the trend became toward the west, and when the P. E. railway line was built, along Brand boulevard, this shift of the population center became more and more pronounced and up to five or six years ago, there was a very bitter feeling between some of the eastiders and westiders. But in 1920 the east side began to stage its spectacular come back, which, I firmly believe, was delayed several years by the failure to secure the building of the P. E. loop down Sycamore Canyon boulevard and around to a junction with the main line at Cypress street or lower down. This project would have carried with it the widening of Sycamore Canyon boulevard to 100 feet, south from Broadway nearly to the southern limits of the city, and the paving of the same, for a boulevard and storm drain, the track to occupy the elevated center section. That portion of this highway above Broadway was to be laid out in a northerly and northeasterly curving course to merge into the boulevard that ascends Sycamore canyon. All of the storm waters which, in flood years, rushed down the canyon and spread out in a devastating flood all over the southeast section, would have been carried in broad streams down the wide boulevard drains on either side of the P. E. tracks, to empty into the wash that meanders through the lower part of the city, thence across Forest Lawn cemetery and eventually into the Los Angeles river. Could this project, demanding an outlay from property owners affected, of $40,000, of which $27,000 was actually pledged, have been carried through, the east side would have had a wonderful 100-foot wide scenic boulevard, bordered by orange and apricot groves and extending entirely through it from northeast to south, would have been freed for all time of flood menace and would have had adequate transportation and vice. It has none of these yet, for the project still hangs fire, but it is coming back with a rush despite this fact and all these may yet be added. The many new subdivisions opened and rapidly sold out to eager homeseekers, the establishing of the million dollar high school plant at Broadway and Verdugo road, and the energetic pushing qualities of many of the old-timers, combined with the infusion of new blood, all these have combined to put such life and vigor into the old east side that nothing can now stop its onward march.

Glendale has now 75 electric trains each way between here and Los Angeles, the most of them of two and three cars. Pasadena is the only city with greater service. It has 111 trains each way on its two lines. Probably this record will be equaled or exceeded by Glendale when the new Glendale avenue line is in operation. Long Beach, with nearly three times our population, has but 57 trains each way, with half-hour service, while we have 15-minute service all day with 10-minute intervals during the morning and evening rush hours. Many of the Long Beach trains have four cars, however, and some of them five. Of course, Glendale is not getting this premier service because the P. E. company loves us most, but because the patronage is here to justify it. And this wonderful liberal patronage all these years deserves much lower fares than we are forced to pay.

Two red-headed murderers who were sentenced to hang today have been granted an indefinite stay of execution by the supreme court of Illinois—because their innocence has been discovered? No, even their own highly paid lawyers could not buy, beg or steal any exonerating evidence whatever. There is not the slightest evidence of their guilt, but—the court erred in admitting evidence during the trial that they were thieves as well as murderers, according to special dispatches from Chicago. No wonder America's lax enforcement of criminal laws and slavish recognition of the most absurd technicalities makes her a laughing stock among the nations. And no wonder our country's murder rate exceeds the combined total of several large European countries. We are long on law but exceedingly short on justice.

To us who remember the slipshod ways of farmers in the east half a century ago, the present day efficiency is a marvel. Particularly in California has farming, or ranching, been reduced to an exact science, so that crop failures are unknown except in times of extreme weather conditions, such as hard freezes. We do not suffer from drought in Southern California because we make our own rain by means of irrigation. When I was a young man and even later in my life, farmers as a general rule took little or no care of their utensils. The plow was left out in the weather all winter; horses and cattle were poorly sheltered and fed and no system whatever prevailed. The grain raised was sold for what it would bring when necessity compelled its disposal, instead of being used to fatten stock for the market. When the reaper and the mower, then the self binder and the gang plow came along, these also were left to rust and ruin. Many a farmer held it necessary to buy a new binder every spring or at least every two years, and generally a note was given for its payment. Now all is changed. The average farmer in the east has a larger barn than dwelling and in it his horses are well kept and well fed and his implements stored when not in use. There is ample room for hay, also, and the large granaries in which to store his corn for sale, when the market is right or for the feeding of his large flocks and herds. He still lacks one important thing, and that is good roads, over which he can quickly transport his grain any day that market conditions make its sale advisable, and these are coming soon, thanks to the advent of the automobile and to its general adoption by the farmer, who is not unaware of the advantages of the tractor in cultivating and harvesting his crops, either. The old days of slipshod farming seem to have disappeared from the land, generally speaking.

A little boy who attends one of Glendale's grammar schools came home recently and told his mother that his teacher corrected him when he pronounced "Colonel" "Kurnel," saying it should be pronounced "Col-o-nel," just as it is spelled. He said he told her his mother and father had always pronounced it "Kurnel," and insisted that was the correct way, but she sharply rebuked him. He also declared that another pupil in the same school was told to pronounce "Des Moines," capital of Iowa, "Des Meinz." I cannot help thinking that both the pupils misunderstood their teachers, or that the latter were joking with them, for surely no one could secure a certificate to teach school who defied the dictionary in this way.

She was absent-minded, but very pretty. The other morning she looked at her best as she approached the counter in a hardware store. "Have you any whiskers?" she asked the obliging clerk who hurried forward to ascertain her wishes.

The poor fellow blushed to the roots of his hair. "I beg your pardon, madam," he stammered, thinking that his ears must have deceived him. "I came to see if you have any whiskers," repeated the girl. For the moment the clerk thought his senses must have left him; then he concluded that the young woman must be mentally deficient, and he looked pityingly at her.

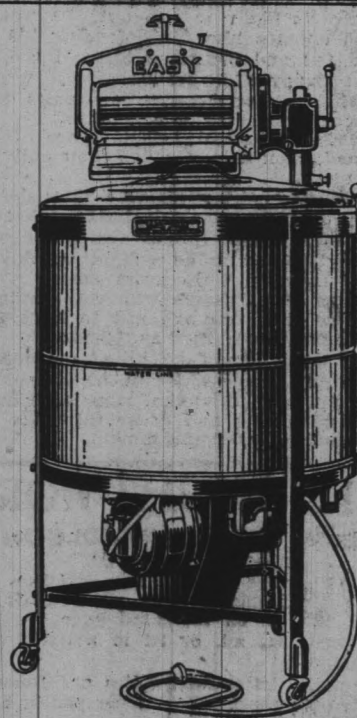

At this juncture a half-stiffled giggle standing near the fair customer reached her ear. Then she realized her blunder. "Oh, of course, of course," she gasped, quickly, "I mean egg-whiskers."

Truths in Epigram

Half the misery of human life would be extinguished, would men alleviate the general curse they lie under, by mutual offices of compassion, benevolence and humanity.— Addison.

The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well, and doing well whatever you do, without a thought of fame.— Longfellow.

DEFENDING THE "COMICS"

The instructor of English in the University of Washington, at Seattle, says that historians of the future will find the best epitome of today's American life in the newspaper comics. In making this assertion he but echoes, perhaps unconsciously, the sentiment of a recent magazine article with the caption "The Pessimism of the Comic Strip." The essayist seeks to establish almost identically the theory put forth by the instructor. A careful reading leads to the conclusion that he fails to do so. The same conclusion must embrace the professor's statement.

Much of the so-called comic stuff is based on the tendency to smile at the misfortunes of others. To grin at the spectacle of a distressed fat man chasing his hat, or at one who steps on a banana skin and takes a painful tumble, is a human impulse not due to lack of sympathy or kindness, but to superficial thoughtlessness. The creator of a comic strip seems to assume, generally, that the readers are not only of low intelligence, but actually brutal. There is no element of comedy in men being pitched into a mortar-bed, kicked by a mule, struck with a brick or a club. These are contingencies on which the "comic" artist draws largely. The situations portrayed are as ridiculous in pretense as in form. They have scant relation to human conduct. They ignore the limitations of physical law. They treat the palpably absurd and impossible not only as real, but common to experience. For example, no society wife continually breaks the dishes on her husband, tosses him out of the house as a regular thing, chains him to the furniture, or whips half a dozen male friends he brings home to dinner. No tramp habitually or even casually, wears a tomato can in lieu of a hat. No race horse travels on the brakebeam, or packed into a lifeboat swinging from the davits. In other words, the comic strips are not an epitome of anything. Discovered in the future by a race of investigators, they would reveal nothing save that certain people were wont to be pleased by a crude, inartistic and meaningless form of diversion.

There are some strips that set forth human traits with precision, genuine humor and without spite, but only a few. They serve to illustrate social or individual peculiarities, and in the compositions there may be a fine touch of irony. The great majority, merely are grotesque, as the paint on the face of a clown. They are not for the purpose, nor could they have the effect, of being a record of current activities.

AMBITION TO EXCEL

Much of human achievement is due to ambition. The desire to do something that never has been accomplished, or to do it better than it has been done, stirs to effort, and often points the way to success. Nevertheless the mere feat of establishing a record may represent wasted energy and lost time. There comes to mind in this connection the young woman who recently danced for fifty consecutive hours. She proved that she could do the useless stunt, and that she had no better sense than to do it. Farther, it is not to be seen that she wins merit.

Similarly may be regarded the champion egg-eater, gorging himself with an unprecedented number of "soft-boiled" and, most unhappily, surviving the ordeal. There also are champion pie-biters, champion consumers of oysters; fellows who play the piano for days and nights without pause; half-wits who win contests by remaining awake for a greater period than their rivals can prolong the struggle. A fleeting notoriety may be had by some of these methods, but mostly the feeling aroused is disgust or pity. The woman dancing fifty hours outraged her physical resources. She drew upon the future for strength. The bill is still to be paid; no doubt it will be presented by an implacable collector. The man who stuffs his stomach with ten times the amount of food his system demands, lacks even the intelligence of the hog that roots. The hog, having a sufficiency of acorns, will cease rooting, being controlled by an instinct that rises superior to the mentality of the glutton.

There are ambitions that inspire courage and project the will into the doing of that which is worth while. They have nothing in common with the activity that finds its climax in an absurd and purposeless exhibition.

THE STUNT FLYER

Another of the stunt flyers fell to probable death last Sunday. He was doing that which is condemned by all real students of aviation, and all who hope to advance the profession to one of extended commercial use. He deliberately risked his life in order that spectators might have a thrill. He was fatally injured, and they had their thrill. He had been standing on one wing of the machine, at the height of 800 feet. Instead of grasping the brace, he laid hold upon a wire that governed the course of the plane, his touch causing it to plunge to the ground.

An aviator must have courage. There is a difference between recklessness and courage. There hardly is a remote possibility that in any exigency of flight there could arise necessity for posing on one of the wings. To do so is a mere folly. It is harmful because it creates a prejudiced belief that aviation is even more hazardous than it is.

Most of the planes used in these stunt exhibitions are old and inferior. Well posted aviators would decline to go up in one of them. The men who do go up show by this conduct that they are not qualified. They do not fully realize the peril into which they rush. It would seem that something might be done to restrain them, if not for their own sake, and that of the gaping crowd, then for the reputation of a highly necessary form of transportation.

IMMIGRATION ODDITIES

Recently a family desiring to enter the United States was permitted to do so only in part. The father, a German, was allowed entry, the wife, by birth Australian, was sent back, accompanied by the child of the pair. It seems that the quota of immigration for Germany had not been filled, but the Australian quota had been filled. So the wife had to depart, to await the allotting of the next quota, while the husband, landing in America, will try to prepare a home against the time of her arrival next year. Perhaps all this red tape was necessary, but to the average observer, it has the aspect of foolishness.

By ordinary usage, a wife assumes the citizenship of her husband. Many wives object to this, and there is a likelihood that ultimately the rule may be changed, each retaining individual citizenship according to nativity or as acquired by naturalization. But the rule has governed so absolutely that American-born women, marrying aliens, have been deemed to have surrendered their American citizenship, and to have adopted that of the husband. By application of this ordinary rule to the family of the German, the wife would have been classed as German, and have been allowed to walk down the gangplank with her husband. Such a course would not have outraged any conventions or imperiled any of the institutions of this free country.

SALAAM TO BUSTER

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Buster is a near-bull pup who is being tried for his life in a Los Angeles police court. The neighbors charge Buster with being vicious and a menace and they want him shot by the police.

But Buster owns a mistress with fight in her cosmos and in consequence, he is being ably defended by a high power attorney—and you will be glad to know that his friends are establishing his character so well that he is likely to live.

The attorney told me the story of Buster. It seems, according to the attorney, that a woman in the community had a grudge against dogs. She enjoyed annoying them and had no respect for their dignity. On the special morning when Buster is charged with having bitten her, testimony shows that she went two blocks out of her way in order to pass across the premises of Buster's mistress and take a whack at the pup's mother. Witnesses declare that she came into the yard with a stick in her hand and gratuitously hit the maternal ancestor of our canine hero.

And Buster, good son that he is, nipped her in the leg. It was a tiny nip and it did not break the skin; but it established in the minds of men that pups respect their mothers.

But there are many people who hate dogs and so witnesses for the prosecution gave Buster a black name, painting him as a kind of demon dog and frightening the spectators into cold chills.

But the attorney was prepared. At the critical moment the court room door swung open and in dashed a smiling, tail wagging, floppy pup who ran about making friends with all the world.

The attorney threw an arm about the neck of the delightful pup and turned laughing to the judge.

"A vicious dog?" she smiled—for the attorney is a woman—"Don't you see how dangerous he is? Besides, which of you would condemn a pup for defending his mother?"

His honor took the matter under advisement and Buster is likely to win out. It would be a shame to execute him for defending his mother, who had fed and protected him all the days of his short puppy life. And besides, who is to blame when a dog bites? Sometimes the dog; but oftener the person who is bitten.

Animals have a well defined sense of personal dignity and when it is offended their only recourse is their teeth.

I've seen boys throw amiable dogs into cages more than once by simply looking at them with a scornful expression. In my own neighborhood I saw a boy make two dogs fight terribly merely by egging them on with covert snickers.

And then when people who tease animals get into trouble they run and ask to have the self-respecting creatures killed as "vicious."

Vicious dogs should be killed or closely confined; but, in fairness, let us be sure it is the dog, and not his victim, who is vicious.

Taunting helpless and dumb things is a poor business, and deserves punishment.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

It takes a long time to grow a tree. It takes a long time to make a man. It takes a long time to earn a fortune. It takes a long time to build a reputation.

It takes a long time to achieve anything that has lasting value.

Somebody said one time that heaven is not reached at a single bound.

That we build the ladder by which we rise.

And then we climb to its summit round by round.

And there is a lot of truth in that.

There is a good deal of get-rich-quick spirit in the James W. Foley age.

The desire to gain a fortune suddenly and by some fortunate stroke of luck.

And while a few fortunes may be gained that way, many are lost the same way.

The gambler is possessed with the passion for wealth easily gotten by chance.

And when the chance goes against him he loses what he has.

Getting rich quick is much the same as seeking to get well quick by drinking nostrums out of a bottle.

The nostrum may deaden pain and produce a fictitious strength, but we are likely to pay dearly for the suddenly acquired effects.

When the reaction comes.

For the health is poorer than before.

The evil of the desire to get rich quick lies in the fact that it disposes the individual for work.

And the individual indisposed to work becomes eventually either a swindler, a parasite, an idler or a criminal.

And that is rather a dismal prospect.

The average criminal is some one who wants to get rich quick.

Or to live by his wits without working.

And he eventuates in the prison or the morgue.

Crime is merely another manifestation of desire accompanied with indisposition to work.

If you cheat the Boss by getting to work late or quitting early you are a criminal to the extent that you are swindling the Boss.

For the Boss is giving you money for something you are pretending to do and are not doing.

Just as a man might give you money for a check that was worthless.

The writer of today in many instances wants to get rich quick with one best seller or a movie scenario.

The callow miss wants to leap into a salary of a thousand dollars a week.

The messenger boy wants to strike it in oil.

Long hours of hard work do not appeal to the get-rich-quickers.

Yet the men and women of the world who are worth while achieved by long hours of hard work.

They did not aim to flash forth on the screen or bring in an oil well over night or gain wealth by ease and chance.

They worked for place, for fame, for distinction, for money or for whatever they have.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Students of the morbid may find in the daily records more than enough to engage their minds.

In a near-by town a young mother, virtually a widow, her husband having disappeared, was playing with her two children, mere tots. Her father is said to have chided her for being so boisterous as to attract attention. Her answer was to take a bottle of poison from her pocket, swallow the contents, and hurl the empty receptacle at her father. In a little while she was dead. That was a sad enough case to think about for quite awhile. There doubtless is a lesson somewhere in it.

A girl of sixteen absented herself from home one night. It was her first diversion of the sort. She went to the beach with some companions; apparently not tough boys and girls at all in the little group. Coming back to the city, the hour was so late she chose not to go home, but went to the other girl's home. Next day she was scolded, or rebuked, or reproached, whatever form the process of maternal correction took. Her answer was known when her dead form was found close to a gas stove, every cock of the stove wide open.

This was not the reaction that might have been expected. A normal girl after trifling offense, might endure a mild penalty without flying to death for relief; but not all girls will.

In the second episode there is of course another lesson. It concerns mothers and daughters; and young men with the price of tickets to the beach. Fathers, too, are not apart from the others. In fact, the lesson is for everybody.

Charles Paddock, admittedly the fastest on his feet among mortals at present, plans to run in Paris. At the first proposal that he should do so, objections were made by the A. A. U. For some reason the Amiable and August Union did not seem to desire Paddock to run in Paris. There appears to be a disinclination in some quarters to have him run at all.

Happily the swift and competent legs of Paddock are his own. He has a mind, also. Furthermore, one judges that he is master of his soul.

Why pick on Paddock?

Spain is reported as being near revolution. Such proximity to revolution seems to be a European habit. Any country that is without a revolution of its own, is likely to be within earshot of one across the line dividing it from its neighbor.

Whenever the body of a murdered man is found now, and there is absence of any other explanation, the natural theory is that the work of the bootleggers has been disclosed. These rascals kill one another with singular zest and freedom. There are many reasons for it.

Bootleggers habitually steal from each other. They have the practice, quite detestable among criminals, of "double-crossing." The experience of being double-crossed arouses irritation. When a bootlegger knows where the opposition gang has sequestered illicit liquor, and is himself unable to purloin it, he betrays the cache to the prohibition forces. Then he watches his chance to steal the liquor out of official storage.

Bootleggers know how low a type they are. Each despises the rest, not being able to trust any of them. Murder avenges a wrong, abates a rival, silences a clacking tongue. There is no mystery in the case of a bootlegger found suddenly deceased, and bearing marks of violence. He merely is the victim of trade competition.

An advance of 11 per cent. in wages, announced by the United States Steel Corporation indicates prosperity. It also proves that there is a demand for skilled labor. It has not been the wont of this concern to pay more than circumstances made imperative. That it concludes to increase wages at this time suggests that other, smaller concerns, share in the prosperity, and were getting in a mood to bid for the services of the labor now with the U. S. steel.

The theft of twenty-one automobiles from the streets of Los Angeles in a single day did not break the record. However, it was above the average, which is not small. It is probable that a large proportion of these machines will be recovered. It is likely that half-grown boys, not particularly wicked, wanted some of them for joy-riding.

There seems no way to stop the stealing of automobiles. The thieves not only are many, but they are pretty smart, and practice has made them skillful.

Concerning a building about to be erected at the Colorado School of Mines, a correspondent remarks "It will be the most presumptuous fraternity lodge on the hill."

From which may be gathered the idea that there is something new in architecture.

Two boys, given a ride on the desert, killed the man who proffered this kindness. They slew him in most brutal fashion, using stones to beat him to death. Then they stole his money and machine. Now as they come to trial, the only plea advanced to save their necks is that they are young.

Such degenerates afford society one of its grave problems. These boys are not normal, and yet they presented no characteristics to prevent them from mingling with people at will. There was no outward sign of their cruelty and depravity. What should be done with these perverts? Nobody seems ready with the answer.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

We've been shaking our heads pretty hard over the tactics of the new manager of Cuddy's New York store, but if looks as though he'll win out. The banker saw his salesbook the other day. After the first month the sales increased every day.

"Yet he has no better stock than the old manager had," said the banker. "Funny."

Not so funny, either. I know what happened. For a month before the new manager took charge, and before his identity was known, he and his wife and daughter and various others visited the store on buying trips. When he took charge the first thing he did was to fire half a dozen superlative old crabs. A dozen more were given a chance to learn how to smile.

"And if you do not, you are on your way," said the new boss.

"The red light is beginning to glimmer over the exit."

Cuddy's New York store had for years been operated by a set of human upas-trees. Everything blighted that came near them. They stood behind the counter exhalting acidity. When they failed to influence customers to stay away from their counters they served them as sassafras as possible. I was haunted by some antediluvian relic every time I visited the store, until at last I determined to leave them in peace. Lots of other people came to the same determination.

That's why the store has a new manager.

"The store tradition," said the new boss, "was that the old employees were to be kept on the rolls. The owner said the years of faithful service entitled them to a place."

But the new manager insists that age is not an excuse for poison meanness. He says we're all human. Most of us, given the chance to be up-stage and independent, will be just that. Old men and women, he says, can be just as sweet and smiling as youngsters, if they want to be.

"We can all stop snarling, if we only try," says he.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

NEW PRINCIPLE OF PHYSICS IS ANNOUNCED

Dr. W. W. Campbell of Lick Observatory,
Makes Discovery

[By Associated Press]
SAN JOSE, Cal., April 13.—The world today is in possession of a new principle in physics which modifies the law of gravitation as announced by Sir Isaac Newton in 1687 if confirmation of the Einstein theory of relativity announced at Lick Observatory, near here last night by Dr. W. W. Campbell, noted astronomer, is not upset by some future discovery.

Dr. Campbell, director of the observatory and president-elect of the University of California, announced he had confirmed the theory as a result of calculations based on photographs of the sun taken by him and a corps of assistants during a total eclipse at Wallal, on the northwest coast of Australia September 21, last. The undertaking was known as the W. H. Crocker eclipse expedition of Lick Observatory and the University of California.

For the first time in 25 years on the date of observation the day was clear. Twelve photographic plates brought back to the observatory turned out to be satisfactory and afforded excellent basis of measurement, Dr. Campbell said. Among the photographs were some taken of stars apparently right at the sun's rim at the time of total eclipse. These stars were known by other than photographic methods of measurement to be farther from the rim than they appeared to be. The result is that the prediction of Professor Albert Einstein, Swiss scientist, that under ideal conditions it would be discovered that the sun deflected the rays of stars passing near it by one and seventy-five hundredths seconds of arc, has been borne out, apparently.

Professor Einstein's theory, according to Dr. Campbell and other western scientists is however, much more complex than a mere hypothesis that light is bent in passing large celestial bodies. The theory in its larger proportions involves a radical change in attitude toward the nature of the universe—at least by scientists. One of the elements of the theory is that light is a substance and because of that attracted by gravity.

Some of the interpreters of the theory also maintain that by virtue of the same quality that makes it subject to the pull of gravity, it has a repelling power because of its weight.

There is also involved in the theory the assumption that the pull of gravity on any substance varies with the velocity of that substance in motion. Light, being presumably the most tenuous form of visible matter, is less subject to the force of gravity than more tangible substances.

The Einstein theory of relativity in discussions among coast astronomers gets its name, it is said, from the fact that it deals with time and space as relative things, distance having meaning only in the relation of objects to each other in space. The same, it is explained, is true of time, it being measured by the relation of events and subject to motion for its existence as a method of measurement.

As far as the man in the street is concerned, Dr. Campbell does not expect his confirmation of the Einstein theory to make any appreciable difference. It will not affect baseball, taxes or prohibition. But in astronomy and its physics, its importance is expected eventually to be more noticeable. Its influence on daily life, at any rate, is not expected to be as great as the Newtonian theory that mass attracts mass is direct ratio to its matter content.

One of the more abstract elements of the Einstein theory in connection with the velocity is that the maximum velocity which anything can attain is 186,000 miles a second, the velocity of light. Above that, according to the theory, energy becomes inert.

Observation of the eclipse at Wallal required 70 tons of equipment, most of which had to be transported from California. The finest instruments available were procured. The astronomers arrived at Wallal 27 days in advance to prepare for the eclipse.

The result was so satisfactory that the experiments will not be repeated during the total eclipse of the sun visible in Southern California next September.

Professor J. J. See, government astronomer at Mars Island, said today he did not believe the Einstein theory capable of proof.

Professor V. M. Slipher, head of the Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Arizona, however, said he had confidence in Dr. Campbell's confirmation.

'NTH COMMANDMENT' IS MOVING TALE AT T. D. & L.

One of Fannie Hurst's noted stories, "The Nth Commandment," said to be similar in appeal and dramatic strength to the same author's "Humoresque," screened by the Cosmopolitan Corporation for Paramount is the feature attraction at the T. D. & L. Theatre.

The story deals with a department store girl who marries a fellow clerk who later develops tubercular trouble. Told that her husband will die unless he goes to the country for a long stay, the unhappy wife, all but penniless, resorts to desperate methods to obtain the money required. This development is the expansion of the theme of the picture—that there are other than the Ten Commandments which men and women must not violate.

Those Holding Eagle Rock City Positions Will Not Be Ousted if Approved

Since the publication of articles in the Los Angeles papers concerning the retaining of Eagle Rock city employees, so many queries have come in from people interested in this part of the annexation question, that it is advisable to publish the resolution which was delivered to the local officials by Percy Shumacher.

The following resolution was presented by Mr. Wheeler, seconded by Mr. Sparks, and unanimously adopted by the council of the City of Los Angeles at the meeting held April 9, 1923:

WHEREAS, Eagle Rock City has recently held an election and the result of said election has been declared, annexing to the city of Los Angeles, the territory known as Eagle Rock City; and

WHEREAS, Within a very short space of time or as soon as the secretary of state has been officially informed of said consolidation, said Eagle Rock City will then be a part of the City of Los Angeles; and

WHEREAS, There are a number of employees holding positions in the present city government of Eagle Rock City, and said employees have done their work satisfactorily and have been loyal to the government of the City of Eagle Rock; and

WHEREAS, In the opinion of the council, it is not the intent or purpose of said council to deprive said employees of their means of livelihood, nor was it the intent, by reason of said consolidation to throw said employees out of employment; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That it be the sense of this council that those employees who were employed by the City of Eagle Rock at the time of its consolidation, be retained in the employ of the City of Los Angeles wherever and whenever such retention is advisable, and to the best interests of the city, and the civil service commission be requested to place said employees on the eligible list and the various departments of the city government instructed to retain said employees at the work which they are now performing and the city attorney and efficiency director instructed to amend the salary ordinance of the various departments covering such employment.

Respectfully,
ROBT. DOMINGUEZ,
City Clerk.

Occidental College Lays Plans for Six New Units

Plans have been laid at Occidental college to raise a $2,000,000 endowment fund. This will be used to start construction work on a number of new units to the school. These will be a new administration building, women's dormitory, gymnasium, chapel, science building, and social unit.

Announcement was made at the last trustees' meeting of the college that the $500,000 endowment fund which was allowed to run until October, 1923, has already been completed.

Dr. John Willis Baer, who has been associated with Occidental since 1906 tendered his resignation to the board of that school on Monday evening. Dr. Baer was president until 1916, and has been one of the trustees since that time. Herbert G. Wyllie, of New York and Los Angeles was elected to fill the vacancy.

SUBURBAN HEIGHTS TO GO ON THE MARKET BEGINNING SATURDAY

One of the greatest land sales in the history of Glendale is scheduled to take place tomorrow, Saturday, at 2:00 p. m. Large scenic homesites in the city's most desirable residential district, facing the famous Brand's Castle, are to be offered far-sighted buyers and investors at prices which will undoubtedly close out this particularly attractive offering at an early hour after the official opening.

Suburban Heights, directly facing Brand's Castle, is today looked upon as the most favored spot in Glendale for a homesite. This choice subdivision has been planned with a view to establishing a lasting superiority. Improvements have been completed before the sale of lots, and today this desirable property has streets paved, cement sidewalks and curbs, and shade trees planted.

"The terms upon which we are able to offer extra large lots in Suburban Heights today," said Alfred Johnson of the Suburban Realty company, "are undoubtedly the most favorable ever to be participated in by Glendale buyers. At prices which are particularly low for lots in such a desirable and much sought for district, we are, through keen financial arrangements, able to offer these large homesites at prices as low as $75.00 as a first payment, and a small monthly payment that even the poorest paid clerk can afford to meet. In making these payments so exceptionally small, we are striving for two purposes. First, we wish our customers to be able to make a substantial profit in a few months' time, and the present low cash payment will still allow the newcomer to buy at a reasonable figure and thereby insure a quick and ready sale. Secondly, we desire to allow the homebuilder to buy his lot as low as possible in order that he may have a surplus with which to commence the construction of his home. In a number of instances we have seen where it was impossible for a man to pay a large cash payment for his lot and still have sufficient money

Be kind to beggars. You may want to borrow money of them some day.

'Absent-Minded' Offenders Will Not Be Urged Again

Today being Friday the thirteenth, it behooves all those business men who have failed to appear at the city hall to pay their business licenses, to "get thee hence thereto" at once. For the last calls are being sent around today, and some of the offenders may not even be notified at this time as they have had several other reminders slipped to them on assorted occasions since the tax became payable at the first of the year. And all of those of the offenders who think that Friday the thirteenth is their luck day, and especially so if no one called from the city to inform them of their delay in this matter, will find that they have been expensively mistaken, according to the officials who have the collection in charge and are now ready to take serious action against the delinquents.

Before the local city hall becomes a part of the paraphernalia of the city of Los Angeles, it will get a new dress, according to City Clerk Martsoff. The walls in the public meeting room have become mottled and discolored until they present the constant appearance of being covered with damp spots and faded calomine, and make the place unsightly for important meetings and city business.

This condition is due to the chemical preparations used with the marble dust, in making the cement, upon the wall paint. The new "dress" will be about the original cream shade, but each indented square will be outlined in a lighter shade, giving it all the appearance of huge blocks of stone.

EAGLE ROCK BAKERY SHOP CHANGES HANDS

The bakery in the Seelig market on the corner of Colorado and Central which has been owned and conducted by Mrs. F. C. Peck, has been sold to Robert Clark, who owned the bakery stand in the Seelig market when that unit was first opened. Mrs. Peck leaves Saturday morning to join her husband in Florida. The new owner is now in charge of the bakery.

A noticeable addition to the "brilliance" of the business section at night is the huge new electrically lighted sign placed on the roof of the Seelig market at Colorado and Central, to advertise the soda fountain and lunch stand operated in the market by Sol Gans. The sign on the roof is visible as far as Eagle Rock, according to the night watchman.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK

BURBANK HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS CLEVERLY PRESENT ROMANCE FULL OF CHARM

Charming indeed from start to finish was the "Charm School," the senior class play given Thursday evening at the auditorium of the Burbank high school. The plot of the play was most entertaining and its presentation by the seniors was cleverly given.

Distinctly artistic was the scenery made by the art classes of the school. Englamouring in its coloring it made an effective background for the happy young people. The entire affair brought glory to the senior class and to Miss Weinstein and Miss Allen, who had carefully and thoroughly coached the players.

The orchestra under the direction of Mr. White, was one of the delightful features of the evening. The play could not help but move quickly and snappily with such music to introduce the acts.

The intriguing romance of the young president of the senior class, Elise Benjetti, and the masculine manager of the girls' school, Austin Bevans, of Miss Hay and Mr. Johns; the twins, Sally and George Boyd, the fascinating charms of the girls of the charm school, the ardor of the young imported professors set forth an ingeniously piquant entertainment.

The blue school dresses with white collars and cuffs, the lovely gowns of the heroines helped to make it a pleasant picture.

Delicate comedy lurking in the lines was put across in good style by all those taking part. The cast which won so many laurels consisted of Euna Emerson, Monzella Ratch, Elsie Smith, Fay Williams, Helen Jones, Pauline Allen, Marie O'Donnell, Edna Bepton, Ellen Hursch, Doris Hench, Alice Steele, Lyman Koppes, Tom Walker, Fred Bradshaw, Ralph Foster, Howard Wilson and Reynolds Packard.

OFFER PRIZES FOR ESSAYS

Burbank Kiwanis Club to Give $10 for Paper on "Courtesy"

Two prizes of $5 each will be awarded to the two best essays on the subject of courtesy, written by boys in either the intermediate grades or high school. The essays will be read at the next Kiwanis luncheon on Wednesday noon.

This is one of the ways the Kiwanis are planning to bring to mind the fact that this is Courtesy week. They intend to talk about it. Clergymen have been asked to preach courtesy sermons, newspapers, merchants and the entire town are asked to help the Kiwanis in expressing views on the value of courtesy.

The new calling contest which the Kiwanians are putting through started in flourishing manner. Although it started on April 11 and will not close until May 9, four weeks later, many of the Kiwanians must have nearly 60 signatures on their books at the present time. Thursday morning nearly 100 percent of the club went calling. J. J. King told of a Kiwanian stopping in at his office, pulling out a register book to sign but discovered he was talking to a Kiwanian and he had to go. "He must be doing a door-to-door business," remarked an envious Kiwanian. Then he saw Harry Kendig, H. J. Sinclair, Harvey Ling, R. W. Colburn, filling out Dr. V. P. Ervin's office at 134 East San Fernando boulevard and dash into Kendig's Electric shop next door. So the contest is proceeding systematically with everybody getting great enjoyment out of it.

The Ladies' night banquet to be given May 16 at the Sunset Canyon Country Club, which will be paid for by the losers, is not the only reward the callers are to receive for the names they feel, for no matter who pays for the dinner, the Kiwanians are having a good time out of trying not to pay for it.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST SCRAPBOOK CLIPPINGS

Narcissus (Nevin). Among Nevin's compositions for piano, the "Narcissus" undoubtedly stands first on account of a certain rhythmic swing and easy flow of the melody. To appreciate this beloved composition, one should know the old familiar legend from which its name is derived. In the golden days when myths were born of the first love between man's imagination and the charms of nature, a youth of surpassing beauty, wandering by the side of a quiet stream, saw for the first time his own reflection in the mirror-like depths of the water. He supposed it to be the face of a water nymph, fell deeply in love with it and lingered there day after day, to watch and woo, until he died of love and longing.

From his grave upon the banks sprang the narcissus flower, named for him. Its pure delicate white and gold loveliness, its sweet seductive perfume, have insured it a place in the hearts of all races in all ages, as the symbol of love stronger than life itself.

TELLS VALUE OF GOOD MUSIC

Dr. Philip Zeiss Talks to John Muir Hi Pupils

"Appreciation of Good Music" was the subject of the lecture which Dr. Philip Zeiss delivered to the pupils of the John Muir junior high school at assembly Thursday. Dr. Zeiss said that good music was one of the four real necessities of life. Food came first, then shelter, clothes and music.

Dr. Zeiss related incidents showing the powerful influence of music, recalling incidents such as the use of music in the war to keep up the morale of the soldiers in the camps and the families at home.

The introduction to the Rotary song book formed the main theme of his talk, for he said it could apply to the school children as well as the Rotarians. After giving them an instructive and entertaining address he taught them some songs. The children showed such eagerness to learn that he promised to come back.

Superintendent of Schools L. F. Collins led the children in enthusiastic applause for the speaker.

A trio, Pauline Cox, violin; Alice Gratrix, pianist; and Annabel Evans, cello, pleased the children immensely by playing two of the selections in the Music Memory contest. They played "Minuet in G" and "O Solo Mio."

AUTO PARKING GIVES TROUBLE

City Collects Opinions From Burbank Citizens

With the rapid growth of the city the congested traffic becomes daily more of a problem to be solved. Monty Montague, the Burbank night patrol officer, was about town Thursday to see the merchants. Carrying a paper for the city, he called upon the business and professional men. The paper read:

"It is desired to ascertain the idea of the various business firms and individuals as to the most efficacious method of parking autos and trucks on San Fernando boulevard in business sections of Burbank, and therefore you are urgently requested to express hereon your opinion as to whether the automobiles and trucks should be parked diagonally to the curb line as is now permitted or parallel with curb line or whether or not parking on San Fernando boulevard between Magnolia avenue and Verdugo avenue should be entirely prohibited."

"Will you please affix your signature. If however, you feel that parking should be allowed on boulevard but limited to 45 minutes please affix 'limited parking.' The purpose of circulating this paper is to secure a general expression of the merchants and professional men."

Among those names signed were: Walter Fisher, limited parking; R. O. Church, parallel; A. E. Duffer, parallel; L. M. Rothenburg, parallel; time limit; J. E. Webb, parallel; time limit; A. C. LA CRESCENTA WOMEN'S CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Most Interesting of Club Year Gathering Is Held Wednesday

LA CRESCENTA, April 13.—One of the most interesting meetings of the La Crescenta Woman's club this year was held last Wednesday at the school auditorium, in which there was a profusion of wild flowers, banked under a large flag that hung across the stage. During the business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. M. C. Collins, members of the nominating committee were appointed, which includes Mesdames F. H. Anderson, Seymour Thomas, C. Cleaves, J. W. Singleton, J. L. Hauben, A. W. Brown and J. C. Martin.

The club voted to take charge of the refreshments and assist the La Crescenta Improvement association in their dance to be given, Saturday evening, April 21.

A luncheon at the La Crescenta hotel for the last club meeting of the year, was one of the pleasant affairs planned at Wednesday's meeting. Mrs. Seymour Thomas announced she would be hostess at a silver offering tea, Wednesday afternoon, May 16, to club members and their friends. The hospitality of Mrs. Thomas' studio will be one of the delightful features of the afternoon.

A vote of thanks was given the Record Ledger for its generous offer to turn over to the club seventy-five cents out of every paid-up subscription within the next thirty days.

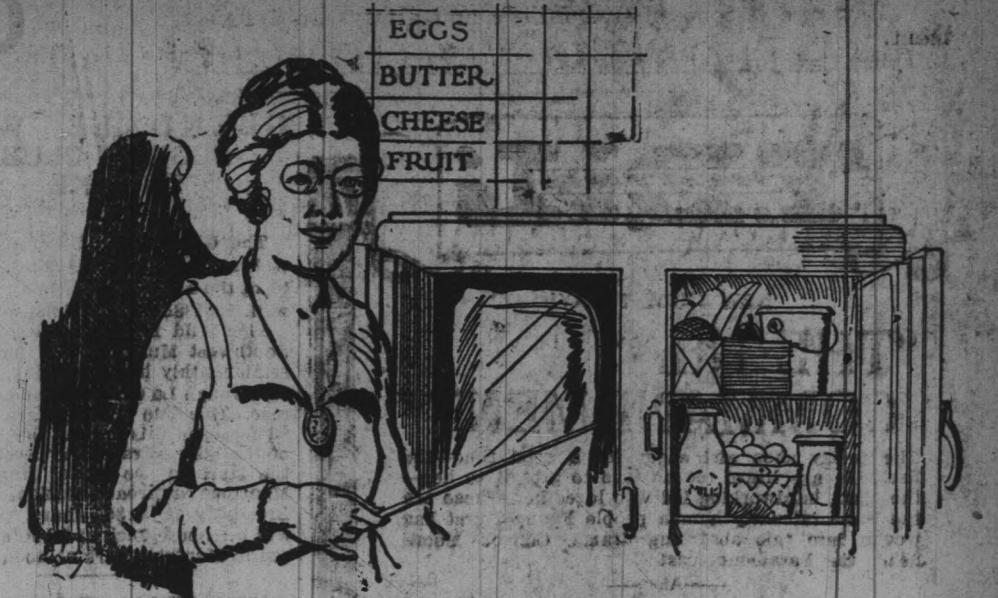

The program of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Charles Turck. Her subject was "Our Flag. The history of the flag revealed many surprises and clearly demonstrated that the speaker had given a great deal of thought to the subject.

Mrs. Turck's splendid description of our flag, for all Americans, "The red stands for courage, zeal and fervency; the white for purity, cleanliness of life, uprightness and integrity; and the blue for loyalty, devotion, friendship and truth. The stars signify dominion and sovereignty and are an ancient symbol of India, Persia and Egypt," and her closing:

"We may hear in the rustling of its sweeping folds, The wonderful promise it held and holds, The faith that makes strong, The hope that makes true, The strength of the red, and The white and the blue. May we hear it, and know it and feel it and see. All the pride of the past and the glory to be. May its stars flash clearer and nearer, each day. We greet you, O! Glory, our flag of glory."

will remain a beautiful memory to every club member fortunate enough to be present.

A rising vote of thanks was given

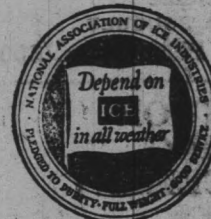

Food experts insist on plenty of ICE!

Perishable food deteriorates rapidly in temperatures above 50 degrees. Long before it shows signs of spoiling, bacterial action has destroyed many of its nourishing qualities.

To secure the highest nutritive value from perishable food, keep it in a well-iced refrigerator. Cold, uniform temperature prevents germ growth.

The small cost of ice will be paid for many times over in the food stuff saved. And you will have the assurance that the food you serve is always pure and wholesome.

Use plenty of ice every day in the year.

Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Discoverer Tells Druggists Not to Take a Cent of Arsenicals Unless All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges

Mr. James H. Allen of Rochester, N. Y., suffered last year with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, common to all, are removed from the system by called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRUH, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRUH with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. THE FRUIT

If there were apples on a tree,
As ripe and red as they could be,
And we should on our orchard round
Pluck rotten apples from the ground,
It would be no more stupid, dull,
By every measure pitiful,
Than is it when we leave the true
And choose the false, as oft we do.

There is so much of love to live,
And get and hold and have and give,
To prize and cherish and delight
The souls of us, as oft we might,
How sad to sit somewhere and wait
Where falls the rotten fruit of hate,
And feed upon its acid, sour
And stinking filth in some dark hour.

Ye: often in the orchard sweet
We walk with foolishness complete
And with its beauty hung around
We choose the filth upon the ground;
The food for swine we gather up,
And squeeze the filth and drink the cup,
When there is beauty all about
For the slight task of finding out.

How I should cry out "fool," to see
Some hungry mortal pass the tree,
And eat as though 'twere good and sweet
That rotting stuff beneath his feet.
And yet how more than sad if I
Pass truth and love and beauty by,
And wallow like a swine or less
In lies and hate and ugliness.

CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN HOLD MEETING AT CHURCH

The regular meeting of the Women's auxiliary of the Congregational church was held yesterday afternoon in the church parlors with Mrs. Peter Hanson, presiding. Reports of the various circles were given. One circle reported the gift of a check for $90 towards the furnishing of the parlors, also a picture and a chair. Other smaller gifts have been given. The members of the auxiliary discussed plans for furnishing the meals at the Congregational conference, which is to be held in Glendale next month.

The course of true love requires a lot of money to keep in repair.

RAMONA INSTITUTE, Y. L. I., HOLDS MEETING AT K. OF C.

The members of Ramona Institute, Y. L. I., met for a short business session last night at the Knights of Columbus clubrooms on Lomita avenue, with the president, Henrietta Schmidt, in charge. Later the members adjourned to the bowling alleys, where they bowled several games. The girls of this club have formed two bowling teams. Although last night was the second time they had played, some very good material is being developed.
